

What a difference a week can make

→ Come Be Part of the Adventure

- ☞ Sign up for a week of 4-H camp in your area. Contact the 4-H staff at your county Cooperative Extension Center.

OR

- ☞ Contact the 4-H camp of your choice. Most camps have all the forms you will need available on their websites.

CT 4-H camps offer one of the best bargains around.

Fees are kept low with the help of numerous volunteers who work tirelessly throughout the year to help raise funds in support of camp programs and spend countless hours maintaining each facility.

Financial assistance is available to those who qualify on a limited basis.

4-H camp is provided on a non-discriminatory basis and is open to all without regard to race, color, sex/gender, national origin, religion or disability.

All 4-H camp programs are provided through a partnership between county 4-H camp foundations and UConn Extension.

UConn Extension is an equal opportunity employer and program provider.

4-H...Where Learning for Living Is Fun for Everyone!

Discover what 4-H can do for your children the rest of the year as well as at camp. In Connecticut, 4-H club programs are open to all young people between the ages of 5-19 years old.

To learn more about all the exciting project areas and how you can help your children discover their "Passport to New Worlds" contact your local county UConn Extension office or the state 4-H office at 1-888-FOUR-H-CT or check us out on the web at www.4h.uconn.edu.

→ Welcome Back

After a year away, 4-H camp is BACK and better than ever! We are excited to welcome kids to the outdoors, new adventures and old friends.

At CT's three 4-H camps, children have the opportunity to explore the world around and unlock their potential within. Through our educational/recreational programs campers learn to grow socially, emotionally and intellectually. By living cooperatively in a natural environment, campers focus on developing life skills with an emphasis on experiential learning (learning by doing).

This year our camps are following enhanced health and safety protocols to insure that all children have a safe summer of unforgettable positive memories.
